Peking Peace Proposals Unacceptable

Cabinet Members Say Nehru Pledges "No Compromises"

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India will fight to clear Communist Chinese troops from every inch of Indian soil rather than accept Peking's terms for peace, two members of Prime Minister Nehru's Cabinet declared Sunday.

Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan said there can be no doubt about India's ultimate victory.

"We do not want to have any compromise with anybody unless every inch of our territory is vacated," Chavan told a public meeting.

Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri used similarly defiant terms in an address before another Indian gathering.

Shastri said the resolve to clear Indian soil of the invaders was made clear by Nehru's reply Saturday to a Chinese letter seeking acceptance of conditions on withdrawal of the Chinese invasion army.

Rejects Proposals

Nehru told Premier Chou En-lai that India could not agree to a Chinese "attempt to retain, under cover of preliminary cease-fire arrangements, physical possession over the area which China claims, and to secure which the massive attack since Oct. 20 was mounted."

Nehru was referring specifically to the disputed area in Ladakh, at the northwest end of the border. He said other terms of the Chinese cease-fire and withdrawal proclamation of Nov. 21 "clearly aim at securing physical control of areas which were never under Chinese administrative control."

India has tacitly accepted the cease-fire that ended 32 days of undeclared war by instructing its troops to shoot only if fired upon.

Lost Contact

Since the cease-fire went into effect Nov. 22, Indian soldiers have lost contact with the Chinese forces.

Though Peking has warned India against military reoccupation of territory the Chinese vacate, Shastri said the Indian troops will eventually go back.

The Indian Communist party came out in support of Nehru's position for a settlement.

The party accused China of long and careful preparation for the fall invasion and said the Indian government proposals, which would strip the Chinese of all the gains, are reasonable.

Mr. K Blasts Abstract Art

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press gave special prominence Sunday to disparaging remarks about abstract art made by Premier Khrushchev.

The premier issued his pronouncement Saturday after visiting a display of abstract paintings at an undisclosed spot in Moscow.

"One isn't able to tell," said Khrushchev, "if they were drawn by the hand of man, or smeared by the tail of a donkey."

He said such paintings were alien to the Soviet way of life and implied they would not be tolerated.

The official party newspaper Pravda spread his remarks over more than a fourth of its front page Sunday. Most other newspapers, including the official military newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda—Red star—did the same.

Pravda and Krasnaya Zvezda had identical headlines: "The lofty calling of Soviet art is to serve the people—the cause of communism."

Khrushchev was accompanied on his foray into the art world by virtually every key official in Moscow.

Pope Appears Before 50,000

Tells Crowd Good Health Returns

By JAMES M. LONG

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII made a brief public appearance at an open window of his fourth-floor apartment Sunday after a week of illness. He blessed a watching crowd in St. Peter's Square and said he is already regaining his health.

"Good health, which threatened to leave us, is about to return—much more, it does return," the 81-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff announced, to cheers of the people below.

A loudspeaker carried his voice clearly and strongly. Standing at the window in a chilly breeze for four minutes, he looked rested and seemed in good spirits. He raised his arms vigorously in his usual Sunday benediction of the crowd, which he had not wanted to disappoint.

The Pope, whose stomach disorder and anemia had caused deep concern in the Vatican, implied that he hoped to be well enough to take part in ceremonies next Saturday closing the first phase of the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council.

The Vatican had given out word Saturday that the Pope hoped to give his usual Sunday benediction. Almost 50,000 Romans turned out. Bishops here for the council sessions and tourists swelled the throng.

The pontiff had been up briefly Friday and Saturday, however, handling some documents, saying Mass in his private chapel, and following the council sessions over a closed circuit television.

Some Vatican sources said the Pope's personal physician, Prof. Antonio Gasbarrini, had urged the Pope not to overdo.

The nature of the stomach ailment has never been disclosed officially. It is widely believed to be an ulcer. The Pope also has a prostate condition.

New Satellite To Link Three Continents

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The United States plans to launch a new communications satellite called Relay into orbit within two weeks to link three continents with "live" television.

The shot, set for around Dec. 11 or 12, will be the last satellite of the year from this space center. It also could be one of the most spectacular.

Relay essentially will perform the same kind of feats that made an earlier communications satellite, the Telstar. It will flash television and radio programs instantaneously from one continent to another.

Telstar was limited to North America and Europe.

With Relay, the South American continent will join in the experiments—meaning that it is possible a Latin dance in Brazil could be seen alive on television screens from San Francisco to London.

The Relay satellite also will be used to transmit long distance telephone conversations between the three continents.

Red Apartment

MOSCOW (AP)—An apartment hotel, planned to be Europe's largest, is under construction near the Kremlin, said the Soviet news agency Tass. It will accommodate 6,000 residents and include shops, two restaurants, two theaters and a park-like roof area, Tass said.

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungarian courts granted 17,000 divorces in 1961, an all-time high in this nation of 10 million people, the government said. Most frequent grounds was "extramarital love affairs, or the appearance of a third person."

President's Father Making Remarkable Gains From Stroke Suffered Year Ago

NEW YORK (AP)—One year after being felled by a stroke, Joseph P. Kennedy, the father of the President, appears to have made a remarkable recovery though some effects linger.

The past few days, Kennedy, now 74, has been busily engaged with business affairs in his New York office.

He is looking forward to another winter in the Florida sunshine at his home in Palm Beach—where he was stricken and left partially paralyzed last Dec. 19.

Kennedy came here Nov. 26 from his Hyannis Port, Mass., residence for what a family spokesman termed a business and pleasure stopover before going to Florida.

"He is doing well and carrying on his activities as usual," the spokesman said.

Huge Hole Blasted In Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP)—Two holes were blasted in the Berlin wall early Sunday at the scene of many previous dramatic escapes.

One blast tore a hole five feet high and two feet wide in the Communist barrier. The other measured a little over a square foot.

The scene was at the corner of Harzerstrasse and Boucherstrasse along the wall between the American sector and East Berlin.

The Communists have emptied all houses and bricked up all windows on the side of the street in East Berlin. People had escaped there by letting themselves down on ropes or by jumping into firemen's nets during the early stages of the wall.

Whether anybody escaped through the new holes was not determined.

The East German Interior Ministry later issued a statement calling the blasts "a severe border provocation."

Tito Heads For USSR

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito headed by train Sunday to the Soviet Union for a visit that may help paper over the Soviet-Yugoslav quarrel which Stalin bequeathed to his Kremlin heirs.

The trip is billed as a vacation, but Tito certainly will talk with Premier Khrushchev and other Soviet officials. It marks a new improvement in relations between the two Communist nations, up and down at intervals since the break of 1948. The present trend is upward.

Tito and Khrushchev last met in 1960 in New York, where they attended meetings of the U.N. General Assembly. Tito last visited the Soviet Union in 1956.

Britain Firm Cuts X-ray Cost

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Thorn electrical industries group announced Sunday it has begun manufacture of an electronic photographic plate which can be used to take up to 10,000 X-rays.

A spokesman said the plate, made of coated steel, gives an immediately visible picture without the need for any developing. He said it would reduce the cost of X-rays 95 per cent.

Same Old Triangle

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungarian courts granted 17,000 divorces in 1961, an all-time high in this nation of 10 million people, the government said. Most frequent grounds was "extramarital love affairs, or the appearance of a third person."

PARIS (UPI)—The president of the Republic of Madagascar, Philibert Tsiranana, arrived here Sunday to hold talks on African affairs with President Charles de Gaulle and other members of the French government.

His speech is not fully recovered but he does very well. There has not yet been a return of the full use of his right hand.

"He can walk with a cane but still uses a wheelchair some as a convenience and to lessen strain on his energy."

Early this year, Kennedy spent several months under treatment here to help him regain use of his limbs and speech.

This was at a small, ranch-type home called "Horizon House," adjacent to New York University's Institute for Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

The institute, under the direction of Dr. Howard Rusk, has a huge staff world-famed for its techniques and successes in rehabilitation. In one group of 3,000 said this usually occurred when stroke strikes, 87 per cent of the victims were returned to daily living and 37 per cent to some kind of gainful work.

Kennedy was pronounced able to fly to his summer home on the water's edge at Hyannis Port last July 7, though once there he had to alter his pattern of living.

Sometimes he would board his yacht, Marlin, a 52-footer, for a couple of hours of cruising with members of the family. On weekends they sometimes included the President.

At Thanksgiving, Kennedy presided over a family dinner at his home, with the President among those present.

Fined For Attempted Handshake

Seen by many TV viewers as he attempted to intercept President Kennedy at the Army-Navy football game, and was hustled off the field by police and secret service men, Vincent Pelzer 45, (center), of Wyckoff, N. J. is shown here before Magistrate Luke McBride in Philadelphia, Pa., flanked by two unidentified police officers. He was fined $10 and costs of $2.50 on charges of intoxication, breach of the peace and disorderly conduct. He said he merely wanted to shake hands with the President.

UN To Debate Sharing Costs Of Financing Peace-Keeping

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Informed sources said Sunday some Latin-American countries will try to have the United States and Middle East bills with budget expenses that every U.N. member must share or eventually lose its vote in the assembly.

The General Assembly's Budgetary Committee will start debate Monday on the World Court's advisory opinion July 20 that all U.N. members are obliged to help pay the expenses of the United Nations' Congo and Middle East peacekeeping operations.

With nine other countries, the United States is sponsoring a resolution that would have the 110-nation assembly accept this opinion. This would lump the Congo and Middle East bills with budget expenses that every U.N. member must share or eventually lose its vote in the assembly.

With eight other countries, the United States also is sponsoring a resolution to have the assembly ask a 15-nation working group to report suggestions by next April 1 for methods of financing future U.N. peacekeeping operations involving heavy expenditures.

The informed sources said some of the Latin-American countries, through an amendment to that proposal or a separate resolution, would seek approval of the principle that countries better able to pay should bear a larger share of peacekeeping costs than they do of the regularly budgeted U.N. costs.

They said the proposals provide that countries paying the smallest share of the regular budget must pay only four-fifths of that for the Congo and Middle East forces. To make up the difference, the resolutions urge sizable additional contributions from permanent members of the Security Council—United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Nationalist China.

The United States has paid $54,489,290 of the $240 million that the U.N. Congo force has cost since it started in July 1960 and $56,444,065 of the $122,750,000 that the U.N. Middle East force has cost since it began in November 1956.

Meanwhile, 50 of the 110 U.N. members have never paid anything for the upkeep of the Congo force and 26 have never paid anything for the upkeep of the Middle East force.

This put the United Nations behind on bills it owed to nations that furnished troops or supplies for the two forces.

In the case of the Congo, latest published accounts show that the nonpayers include Belgium, Nationalist China, France, Greece, Italy, South Africa, the whole Soviet bloc and several African Asian and Latin-American countries.

The announcement, reported by the Saudi Arabian government-controlled Mecca radio, said four royalist tribal armies were marching on the Yemeni republic capital of Sana, its southern twin capital of Taizz and the Soviet-built Red Sea port of Hodeida.

The deposed king was quoted as claiming in a communique that 456 Egyptian troops had been killed in various armed clashes with royalist forces in Yemen in the preceding 48 hours.

With solid evidence lacking, it is difficult to determine whether the royalist claims are factual or an exaggeration to head off an apparent Western tendency toward recognition of Sallal's two-month-old regime.

Sallal promptly challenged Badr to "show his face in any part of Yemen."

The Sana radio said Sallal, speaking at Jbb in the south of Yemen, claimed full military control over Yemen's entire north in the Al-Haradh and Sada regions along Saudi Arabia's southwestern frontier.

ROME (AP)—Rome police had a strange complaint today: A man named Little Dog bit a dogcatcher for catching a dog.

It may take a while for police to work out all the details, but the first report on the books went this way: Dogcatcher Carlo Ciardi netted a stray dog he saw wandering the street illegally without a muzzle. He and police Pietro Collicelli became involved in a violent argument with the supposed owner, a man they named as Francesco Canino—in Italian that's Little Dog. Blows were exchanged, and Ciardi went to a hospital for treatment of a bitten arm. He said the biter was Mr. Canino.

Indian Patrols Scout Foothills

Reds Fall Back 20 Miles In Some Areas But Occupy Strong Points

By CONRAD FINK

TEZPUR, India (AP)—Red China's troops appeared Sunday to be pulling back as promised in at least some areas of the Himalayan borderland. Indian patrols cautiously scouted the foothills.

An authoritative source said the Chinese seem to have withdrawn 20 miles at some points on their way back from the front-line positions they gained in their massive thrusts into northeast India two weeks ago.

Radio Peking told of a withdrawal in one sector—the eastern tip of the front where the Reds' November drive carried to positions 80 miles south of Walong.

Without discussing the mileage, the broadcast said the Chinese pulled back Saturday "north of Penchiung from Chila and Samu-weih." All these evidently are minor villages. None appear in standard reference works. In a propaganda note, the Peking station said the Chinese left relief goods with people who suffered property damage from shelling blamed on Indian artillery.

Hold Some Positions

High military sources in Tezpur were quoted as saying Chinese troops still held positions in the Lohit River Valley of eastern India, near the Burma border.

One of the two main Chinese drives toward the Assam plains came down along the Lohit after smashing the Indian defenses at Walong.

Peking announced in its one-sided cease-fire proclamation Nov. 21 that it would start moving Chinese troops Dec. 1 to positions behind the lines of actual control of Nov. 7, 1959, and that it wanted India to do the same.

With the time for those withdrawals at hand, Prime Minister Nehru sharply rejected key points Saturday and asked Premier Chou En-lai's Red government for further clarification. Nehru said China's provisions would leave it in possession of the fruits of aggression—2,000 square miles of Ladakh in the northwest and strategic mountain passes in the northeast.

Stand Pat In Ladakh

The Chinese intended to stand pat in Ladakh, the high and barren site of a highway they have built to link their Sinking Province with Chinese-occupied Tibet. But they proposed to give up the bulk of their gains in the northeast.

It is obvious the Indians are treading carefully.

Some type of civilian agency will handle the return of 53 prisoners the Chinese announced they would release Dec. 5 at Bomdila, a well-informed source said. He said all 53 are reported wounded.

Reports of the Chinese withdrawal were greeted with relief by Tezpur citizens. Nevertheless, new trenches were being dug as a precaution against anything going wrong.

More than 10,000 of 14,000 Indian troops trapped by the Chinese in the Se Pass area are now reported to have returned to Indian lines.

Four Royalist Armies March On Yemen

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Yemen's deposed king, Mohammed Al-Badr, formally announced Sunday his long-promised "show-down march" to force the U.A.R.-backed republican regime of President Abdullal Sallal out of the Red Sea country.

The announcement, reported by the Saudi Arabian government-controlled Mecca radio, said four royalist tribal armies were marching on the Yemeni republic capital of Sana, its southern twin capital of Taizz and the Soviet-built Red Sea port of Hodeida.

The deposed king was quoted as claiming in a communique that 456 Egyptian troops had been killed in various armed clashes with royalist forces in Yemen in the preceding 48 hours.

Some of the children as an extra present.

After all, Wally thought, Christmas is a time for giving. So Wally gave—and gave—and gave.

Unfortunately for Wally—for the children—and for the spirit of Christmas—a store official saw what Santa was doing. He pointed out very firmly to Wally that, while Christmas is Christmas, business is business.

But Wally couldn't accept the hard facts of commercial life. So the store very politely told him not to come around any more. In short, he was fired.

At home Saturday night, Wally sat thinking back on his reign as Santa. The sad fact of life, he learned, is that Santa mustn't really give things away.

"The trouble is," he sighed, "I just let my Christmas spirit get the better of me."

Penitentiary Picket Is Arrested

Art Student Held As Segregation Protest Is Made

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 21-year-old student was arrested by police Saturday when he left a picket line which integrationists had formed at the Maryland Penitentiary to protest alleged segregation there.

Roger Sheppard, an art student at the Maryland Institute, was charged with disorderly conduct after he crossed the street to explain the reasons for the protest to a group of young Negro children.

Sheppard was told to return to the picket line but declined on the grounds that he had folded his sign to symbolize the fact he was no longer an official picket.

Ernest T. Garner, who made the arrest, said later Sheppard could have "incited a riot, either inside the prison or out."

"He was just stirring those youngsters up," Garner said, "and trying to get a bigger audience for himself. That kind of thing can cause trouble right away."

There were no other incidents during the three-hour protest. Eighteen pickets, both white and Negro, took part.

Warden Vernon L. Peppersack, as he watched the pickets from inside the prison, said he has been instituting a policy of desegregation for some time. He said, however, the protest could slow progress.

"This is just the kind of thing that could stir the prisoners up and give them an excuse to cause trouble within the prison," he said. "If that happens, we'll have to slow the integration process down considerably."

The integrationists, members of the Civic Interest Group, demand that prison officials set up a timetable to carry out complete integration of the institution. Peppersack has said it is impossible to set up a definite timetable.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — State agencies so far have submitted budgets for the next fiscal year totaling $317,241,000. The same agencies received $268,055,000 for the current fiscal year.

With nearly all the budget requests in, officials say requests are now about 18 per cent above last year's operating budget.

BALTIMORE (AP) — An increase of almost $6 million over last year is being sought by the State Roads Commission for its fiscal 1963 budget.

The agency has budgeted $124,786,644 for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Of that amount, $20.7 million is to repay debts assumed to finance road construction.

Another $58.7 million is federal aid for major interstate highways and $11.3 million was budgeted for maintenance, including snow removal.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Baltimore high school boys scooted to Washington during the weekend to promote physical fitness.

The boys, Joseph Landowne and Joel Nachlas, both 15, left before 9 a.m. from Relay, just south of Baltimore on U.S. 1, and arrived in Washington late in the afternoon Saturday.

The trip was endorsed by the Maryland Commission on Physical Fitness.

U Thant Says Major Powers Can Compromise Differences

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — U. N. Secretary General Thant Sunday called on the United States and the Soviet Union to follow up their Cuba compromise with "give and take" solutions on Berlin and other cold war issues.

In the first public policy statement since his unanimous election last Friday to the top U.N. post, the 53-year-old Burmese diplomat suggested that Western and Communist powers come to the United Nations and negotiate compromise solutions to East-West disputes with its help.

Thant said he was convinced that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev did not want war and was sincere in his calls for peaceful co-existence.

He chided the Western powers for apparently failing to recognize the "full significance" of the changes in Moscow's thinking since the death of Josef Stalin.

Thant, however, praised President Kennedy for agreeing to the neutralization of Laos and thus admitting "wisely" that the "attempt to create a pro-Western government in Asia had failed."

He said Kennedy has accepted the view that "the best the West could hope for in Asia — and for that matter Africa — are governments which fear outside interference and subversion as much as they hate colonialism; and that the function of Western policy should be the creation of a framework within which they can exercise their own freedom of choice."

Delivering the George Huntington Williams Memorial Lecture at Johns Hopkins University, Thant recalled his mediating role in the Cuban Crisis negotiations, which he said had led to an agreement on "certain fundamentals between the two major powers."

Thant titled his lecture "East-West Relations and the United Nations." It was a stirring plea for building the U. N. into a far more effective instrument for international cooperation.

He said the U. N. already was a "cold war battleground" mainly because it was "the greatest public forum in the world today."

"I would hope that the General Assembly may become even more effective as a public assembly by providing opportunities for personal contacts between the leaders of the world, as also for rational debate on difficult issues, so that the U. N. truly serves the purpose set out in the charter 'to become the center for harmonizing the actions of nations,'" he said.

Four Die In Two Fires At Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four persons died in two fires in Washington Saturday night and Sunday. Fire officials said one blaze was caused by a child playing with matches.

Mrs. Linwood Norris, 29, died in her basement apartment in a blaze started when her three-year-old son set a couch afire while playing with matches, officials said.

Another child, two-year-old Linwood Norris Jr., died early Sunday in Children's Hospital of burns suffered in the fire. The dead woman's husband was hospitalized in critical condition. Five other children in the apartment were treated for smoke inhalation.

The other fire killed Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gooddard, whom neighbors said were in their early 70s.

The pre-dawn blaze in the Gooddard's home awakened neighbors who tried unsuccessfully to enter the home. Flames at the front door kept them back and immovable storm windows prevented an effort to get into the second floor from a ladder.

Fire officials said cause of the blaze was undetermined, but other sources said a short circuit was believed the cause. Gooddard's body was found on the first floor and his wife's on the second floor.

Adenauer Charts Political Future

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who has just weathered the worst domestic crisis in his 13 years of government leadership, charted his political future Sunday as he drafted a proposed new cabinet.

The cabinet is to be designated this week by leaders of Adenauer's Christian Democrat party (CDU) and the Free Democrat party (FDP), which has agreed to participate in a new coalition. Both have called on the chancellor to set an exact date for his retirement and agree to nomination of a successor during the cabinet negotiations.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 192 "The Copperhead Bright Convention Meets in Indianapolis Today," said the Cincinnati Gazette July 30, 1862, in the earliest use in print of a term that sprang up a century ago for Northerners who sympathized with the South or disloyalists to the Union. "Bright" referred to the most conspicuous leader among dissidents in Indiana who sought to elect congressional candidates opposed to the Lincoln war policies. Jesse D. Bright had been expelled from the U. S. Senate for his unbroken ties with Southerners.

Bright, a conspicuous fellow traveler in Ohio, Congressman Clement L. Vallandigham, and proponents of "peace at any price" naturally attracted many followers. With disunion being preached in the North, Edward Everett Hale, a grand nephew of the War of Independence hero, Nathan Hale, was moved to write a parable, "The Man Without a Country." He had his chief protagonist, Lt. Philip Nolan, declare, "Damn the United States! I wish I may never hear of the United States again!"

The court which convicted the fictional Nolan of disloyalty took him at his word: He was sentenced never to see or hear of the United States again. The condemned man was passed from one U. S. Navy vessel to another, under an injunction to all aboard never to mention the country in his hearing.

After 55 years of roving exile, Nolan died grasping a United States flag and begging for news of the country he had deserted.

The story begot an enduring phrase for forced exile.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What does one say to children when they ask questions about an aunt who lives in a beautiful apartment, drives a new car every two years, wears elegant clothes, exquisite jewelry and furs, and doesn't have a job?

The truth is, she's the great and good friend of a rich old coot who is married.

Rita has a nice personality and always behaves like a lady. She is generous to her widowed mother and is always there with her check book when someone in the family needs help. I guess you'd call her a good egg.

But this doesn't alter the fact that she is a kept woman. Now, what do I tell my children?

—STUCK FOR AN EXPLANATION

DEAR STUCK: Tell your children that Aunt Rita is good to her widowed mother, is always there with her check book when someone in the family needs help and that she is a good egg. This is all you know for sure—and it's all they need to know too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When should parents stop trying to help their children? When they go away to college? When they become 21? When they marry? Is there a specific time when parents ought to let their children do exactly as they please without one word of criticism or advice?

Our son graduated from the university four years ago. He now has a lovely wife and two darling children. This is the time when we should be proud of him but instead he's an embarrassment.

He used to be immaculate, and a smart dresser. Now he gets his hair cut once in a blue moon. His clothes are never pressed and he goes without shaving for days at a time. His shabby appearance breaks my heart. He seems to have lost all self-respect.

As his mother do I have the right to say something?

—SAPHIRE

DEAR SAPHIRE: Say something to his wife. It's her responsibility now, not yours.

Personal appearance can be a barometer of daily pressures. The person who can't cope with problems often becomes careless about himself. Sloppiness in one who used to be immaculate may be a symptom of an emotional problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: An awful lot of teenage girls write and tell you they want to go steady but their parents are against it. Well, this letter is from a girl who agrees with you that going steady can lead to all sorts of problems. I don't WANT to go steady — but my mother insists on it.

She claims it looks very bad for a young girl to be dating several different fellows. She says it causes gossip and gives the neighbors funny ideas.

Just to satisfy her I went with one fellow for six months. Because I was dating him exclusively, no one else would ask me out. I finally decided to stop going with the octopus and I stayed home until other fellows became interested in dating me.

Again I'm having trouble with my mother. She wants me to go with one fellow, and only one. Help me, please.—AGING FAST

DEAR AGING: I don't approve of going steady and I've spelled out the reasons countless times, but I don't approve of 14 fellows in 14 nights, either.

It is perfectly respectable for a young girl to date five or six fellows, and I heartily recommend it.

Confidential to THIS TIME IT'S REAL: Real nothing, Toots. You can't build a life on a foundation of lies and deceit. Drop him.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Peace Corps In Liberia Effective, Enthusiastic

By GEORGE WEEKS

MONROVIA, Liberia (UPI) — Two years ago Thomas H. E. Quimby was a campaign representative for President Kennedy in the Midwest.

Today he is a Peace Corps representative for Kennedy in Africa.

Quimby, former Michigan Democratic National Committeeman, directs a 91-member project in Liberia that has given Africa's oldest republic a 180 per cent increase in the number of college graduates teaching in secondary schools.

To Liberian Education Minister John Payne Mitchell there is only one thing wrong with the project — it isn't large enough.

"I wish I could have gotten 200 Peace Corps volunteers," he told a reporter.

Mitchell said what the volunteers lack in experience in Africa and the classroom "they make up in enthusiasm."

"They are youngsters who want to do something," he said. "They aren't bureaucrats interested in a career."

Liberian Planning Director J. Milton Weeks said the ultimate effect on Liberia's total economic situation will be "revolutionary."

"They will decrease our dropout rate and improve our basic education," he said.

By their professional attitude, they will cut down the teacher absenteeism, late classes and improper preparation."

In one remote village, accessible only by a trail that washes out on occasion in the rainy season, two volunteers teach in a school whose principal has had only one year of college. One of the students in the fifth grade is 22 years old.

Quimby said volunteers and staff alike are pleased with the lack of red tape in the Peace Corps.

"Here, the emphasis is on the initiative of the individual volunteers," said Quimby, who was director of workmen's compensation in Michigan under Governor G. Mennen Williams, now assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Quimby isn't exactly a volunteer in the same sense as one of his volunteers, who earn $75-a-month plus living expenses. His annual salary is $16,320.

But Quimby, a tall, crewcut, prematurely grey (he's 40) Harvard graduate, likes to think the staff and volunteers are alike in that they all have to rely on "ourselves and our own power" in Africa to a greater extent than they would in the United States.

With the help of bush pilots, Quimby's staff placed and is supplying volunteers in some of the most remote areas of Liberia, thus helping President William V. S. Tubman's program of taking education to the hinterland.

Volunteers had to be flown into one coastal village because the ocean was too rough for the surf boats. Two Peace Corps doctors had to be flown out of another village when a makeshift bridge washed out.

Supplying the volunteers once they get in place is one of Quimby's daily headaches.

One day in September two volunteers in the mud hut-village of Bopulu sent word to Quimby's headquarters in Monrovia that they were bothered by rats in the night.

Two other volunteers awaiting assignment in Monrovia were dispatched to Bopulu in a four-wheel drive vehicle that was up to its running boards much of the time as it traversed the Bopulu Trail dropping off mail to volunteers along the way.

At one point, a log bridge had to be rebuilt before they could cross.

But by nightfall the Bopulu Peace Corps volunteers had what they needed to take care of the rats — a big white cat.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 193

In effecting the radical reforms in Army field medical care that made his new hospital corps for McClellan's Army of the Potomac a model for the world, Jonathan Letterman also looked at conditions behind the battle lines in the Virginia peninsula. Bullets and cannon shot were not the only important causes of casualties in 1862. Many men were made ill or ineffective by dysentery and other stomach disorders, and there were multiple cases of so-called social diseases.

While, in general, the quantity of food provided the Federal armies was adequate, the quality wasn't. Naturally, some of the supply contractors were dishonest, and lots of meat, flour and other staples were bad. Even when good in the raw, the rations often were poorly cooked. Numerous Union Army cook-houses were presided over by men too stupid or fractious to learn to drill or stand guard. Commonly there was too much salt meat and too few fresh vegetables, which led to scurvy. In contrast, many Confederate units were served by skilled Negro cooks.

Union officers in the field fared little better than their men, even though they had more money to spend at the sutler shops to which the Army granted regimental concessions. These were permitted to sell canned meats, condiments, pickles, dried fruits and jellies; their main stock in trade, besides tobacco and newspapers, was pastry—pies and cakes—usually of poor quality. Suters also "bootlegged" whisky.

Secrets Of Charm

Hints For The Holiday Hostess

Are you planning to entertain during the coming holiday season? Take heed—THIS week is THE week to send out those invitations! If you put it off, it's inevitable that your party will be crowded out of the busy-busy social schedules of many of your guests.

Getting out the invitations at least three weeks in advance drew a unanimous "first" on all the lists of hostess hints collected recently among Powers Models. The girls included not only their own pet entertaining tricks but slipped in ideas that have found favor among their friends and members of their families, too.

The results represent the thoughts, then, of a good cross-section of women of all ages and tastes—women who have much in common with you, especially in arranging parties on their own without (or with just a minimum) of outside help.

Most of the hostesses in my survey urge WRITTEN invitations, particularly at this time of the year, knowing their guests will appreciate having all the facts down on paper, to keep as a reminder and a ready reference.

The problem of the bountiful-but-simple menu came next in the consideration of most of the hostesses. Foods that could be prepared in advance (weeks ahead, if possible) won the most votes as the secret "tranquilizer" for guaranteeing partytime calm and charm. Almost everything in holiday eatables, they decided, can be fixed anytime the time and the mood are right . . . and kept serving-fresh in the home-freezer. Defrosting and/or warming is an easy last-minute detail.

The third point of agreement in the survey concerns the delicate topic of a hostess vs. her punch-bowl. Everyone concurred on the need for a clear-headed hostess, although "how to" suggestions differed. One woman takes her first drink after most of her guests have arrived—and makes that one drink last all evening. Several advocate total abstinence and save their first sip of punch for the moment after all guests are gone . . . "just a bit to cheer me up for the clean-up committee," one confessed.

Most, however, prefer to play make-believe. Since they offer a choice of two punch-bowls anyway—one "with" and one "without"—they refill their own glasses with only the non-alcoholic beverage. They theorize that many guests become self-conscious if the hostess doesn't hold a glass in her hand. One added:

"I make sure, then, that nobody is embarrassed . . . and that non-drinkers never get confused. Both my punches are always the same color—but the bowls and their matching glasses are not."

Enjoy holiday calories—but be prepared to count them in the new year. Send today for my booklet, "How Much Should YOU Weigh?" Write to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Munich One Of Surprises Of Trip To Europe

By RALPH VILLERS

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—This capital of warm and friendly Bavaria can turn out to be one of the surprise gems of a visit to Germany, or to Europe, for that matter.

Surprise number one is its size—more than 1.1 million persons. To someone across the Atlantic, it is easy to think of Munich as one of those small picture postcard towns that is known so well because of its continual thrust into history.

And for those familiar with the name Munich only through its best-known export to the United States—its beer—it might be hard to envision this metropolis as anything more than a common town, if you hold to the belief that beer is the drink of the common man.

But just as its beer is a classic of the brewer's art—gushed forth from seven giant breweries and much loved in Germany, as well as abroad—Munich also is the cultural center of southern Germany.

By day there are more than enough museums, art galleries and treasures to occupy the culturally minded tourist for weeks. By night, its mammoth beer halls, such as the famed Hofbrauhaus or the Mithasner, are alive with friendly people, sitting at big tables and soaking in both the music of Bavarian bands and light or dark beer from full-liter stone mugs.

A stranger is always welcome to sit down in an empty seat, and more often than not the natives will try to communicate, if only by means of a "prosit"—toast. Almost as famous as the beer, are the Munich white sausages and the long accordion-cut white radishes, liberally laced with salt, that go with the drink.

Munich, too, is the home of probably the world's biggest "beer bust," the Oktoberfest, which runs for just over two weeks beginning in late September. The towering statue of "Bavaria," the symbol of this southern state, then looks down onto a sprawling fair set up on the Theresienwiese which attracts hundreds of thousands of visitors every year.

The Return Of The Natives

The demands of empire having diminished markedly this century, Britain finds time to consider the future of the tiny South Atlantic island of Tristan da Cunha. It has always been a lonely place of marginal existence, but never lonelier than this last year when they had the trouble with the furnace.

Tristan da Cunha, is not an ordinary, dependable island. It is the precariously sealed business end of a volcano. A year ago there were rumblings in the cellar, and then a gush of hot ash and lava. The British Navy obligingly evacuated the 263 islanders and took them to that larger, greener and more stable island between Ireland and France.

The Tristan islanders there met the 20th Century, gave it a whirl, and promptly became homesick. Three months ago a scouting party ventured back to see if the volcano had quieted down. It had. Now everyone wants to go back.

Her Majesty's government is surprised but understanding, and will help restore Tristan da Cunha for the return of its people. By a year from now the Tristan islanders will have stepped back into a simple life that most of the world long since left behind. From here Tristan da Cunha seems mighty attractive. But no place to settle down until they get the furnace fixed.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Three Kinds Of Republicans

A Republican used to be an American who was not a Democrat. These days, everything has to be defined. These days, there are three kinds of Republicans: Conservatives, Liberals and Progressives. All claim to descend ideologically from Abraham Lincoln, forgetting that it was Horace Greeley and his associates at Ripon, Wisconsin, who laid the foundations for the party, and they were Radicals. Also, their first nominee for President was not Lincoln but Fremont.

The Republican Party was the political arm of the Abolitionist Movement of which Abraham Lincoln was not a part until the Civil War actually started. He was not John Brown. However, as he was undoubtedly one of the greatest men to have evolved from the American race, it is pleasant to have such nobility of personality as the progeniture of the Republican Party.

The Conservative Republicans, tracing their lineage from Abraham Lincoln, sometimes go back to Alexander Hamilton to prove a point. At any rate, their true father is Thaddeus Stevens of Pennsylvania and their greatest figure was Mark Hanna of Ohio. He made it the party of big business and individualistic farmers and the Civil War veterans who never forgot how heroic they had been. It was a good combination and kept the Republican Party in office for quite a number of years.

However, accidents do happen in politics. The anarchist shot President McKinley and, unexpectedly and unsatisfactorily, Theodore Roosevelt became President. Roosevelt had been a police commissioner in New York and he knew how the other half lived—and he did not like the way they lived. So, he became a Republican Progressive. He really laid the foundation for the New Deal. He invited Booker T. Washington, President of Tuskegee, to the White House which aroused considerable consternation. Roosevelt talked strong and frightened the world and kept the peace.

He made William Howard Taft President, expecting him to be a Square Dealer, but Taft, coming from Ohio, could not quite be a Progressive. He remained a Conservative and busted the trusts. Roosevelt ran against him for a third term and Woodrow Wilson, a Liberal Democrat, was elected.

Wilson had a war; so he was something of a hero. Everybody went in for good works, without regard to party. Therefore, many Republicans became Liberals. In fact, they were all so mixed up that nobody could tell what the difference between a Republican and a Democrat was. This continued for quite a few years, even when Republicans were elected to the Presidency.

Finally, came the Presidency of Herbert Hoover, who had been a Wilsonian Liberal. But Hoover got a Depression on his hands and wore high, stiff collars; so he was regarded as Conservative. It just goes to show how the course of events influences politics more than ideological positions. During the Depression years, Senator William Borah and, later, Senator Robert A. Taft emerged as leaders. Borah posed as a Liberal but was really a Conservative; whereas Taft gave the appearance of being a Conservative but was actually in the Progressive tradition.

Time passed with Franklin D. Roosevelt and the world became very confused. Roosevelt gave himself the label of New Dealer and organized a catch-all party which was without an ideological basis. He played by ear. The Republicans generally practiced Mc-Tooinism, which means that they believed that they could do the same things better. Their Presidential candidates did not matter, but a strong Conservative group developed in the Senate who, led by Senator Joe McCarthy, made anti-Communism their issue. Taft meanwhile organized a coalition of Northern Republicans and Southern Democrats who managed to keep the country from going helter-skelter. This continued during the Truman and Eisenhower Administrations.

Now we come to the present. Senator Jacob Javits has revived the word Progressive. He does not base his Progressivism on Senator Robert La Follette, the elder, who yearned to be President. Rather, he goes back to Theodore Roosevelt. In this he departs from the Liberalism of Woodrow Wilson and the confusion of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Progressivism is, in reality, a form of Conservatism in that it recognizes what has been historically gained and which must be preserved, such as big business but moves forward without damaging the structure. It is an interesting departure from Mc-Tooinism and may give Nelson Rockefeller, if he can take it, a philosophy which men can support who believe that there is much good in American life that should be preserved progressively.

Digging Our Grave With A Teaspoon

Past Events Cast Doubt On Mikoyan's Word

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The name of Anastas I. Mikoyan, First Deputy Premier of the Soviet Union, is again in the headlines. He is received by President Kennedy with dignity and forbearance. But how much do the American people know or remember of the misdeeds and acts of treachery committed by Anastas Mikoyan in the crushing of the liberties of the Hungarian people just six years ago this month?

Mikoyan is an emissary of Premier Khrushchev, so, as is customary, he is received by high officials of the Government of the United States. But can his word be trusted?

The game of deception played by Anastas Mikoyan in the past is written plainly on the pages of history for all to read. In October, 1956, a new government was established after the anti-Communist Revolt in Hungary. On October 31, it took up with Mikoyan in Budapest—where he had been sent by the Kremlin—the question of the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary. This Mikoyan promised would be done.

President Eisenhower in a radio and television talk on the same date said with respect to an announcement by the Soviet government on October 30 that it would consider withdrawal of its troops from Rumania and Poland, as well as Hungary: "If the Soviet Union indeed faithfully acts upon its announced intention, the world will witness the greatest forward stride toward justice, trust and understanding among nations in our generation."

But what happened? Not only were the troops retained in Hungary, but additional units of the Soviet Army poured in from Rumania and on November 4 attacked the Hungarians. The anti-Communist movement was wiped out by overwhelming Soviet forces. The Hungarian delegation "negotiating" with the Soviets on the "withdrawal of troops" was imprisoned, and its leader later executed. The new Premier, Imre Nagy, was arrested, deported to Rumania, and subsequently executed.

Hungarian appeals to the United Nations were of no avail.

The U.N. Security Council had met on November 2 to discuss the "critical situation in Hungary." Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev blandly assured the Council that the reports of a Soviet march on Hungary were "utterly unfounded."

Immediately after news of the Soviet attack on Hungary was received, the Security Council met again on November 4. A resolution was introduced by the United States condemning the Soviet attack and calling for an on-the-spot investigation by the U. N. of the situation in Hungary. It was vetoed by the Soviet Government, and one veto is enough to kill such a proposal. The measure was passed by the General Assembly, but the Soviet government—which, by then, was in full control in Hungary—refused permission for any commission to enter the country. None has ever gone there.

This is the sad story in which Deputy Premier Mikoyan played a principal part. He was then—as he is today—a tool in the game of the Soviet government. He does what he is instructed to do, irrespective of whether it requires giving pledges that will not be kept or asserting facts that later prove to be false.

Just a few weeks ago—on October 22—President Kennedy, in a nationwide radio and television address, told the world of the deception that had been practiced by the Soviet Union in connection with the missile buildup in Cuba, including the fact that Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko had come to the White House and had lied to him. Mr. Kennedy said:

"The size of this undertaking makes clear that it has been planned for some months. Yet only last month, after I had made clear the distinction between any

BORDER WAR — The Sino-Indian border clashes that have blossomed into a full-scale war are puzzling to many western observers who recall the fervor with which neutralist India has championed the cause of Red China.

It seemed incredible that even a regime as ruthless as that of Communist China could turn so viciously on one of its few friends in the world.

To some Washington diplomats the only reasonable answer is to be found in Red China's dedication to Communist principles and its determination to erase democracy in Asia.

India, a terrible backward, over-populated nation, is nevertheless the largest democracy on the Asiatic continent. With assistance from western democracies, as well as from Russia, it has been making economic strides toward a higher standard of living for its people and a more industrialized society.

This progress is intolerable to the rulers of the uncounted millions of Chinese who have fared poorly indeed under Communism. According to diplomatic observers, Red China's real intent is to drain off production that is helping the Indian economy, thereby reducing the Indian masses to the same degree of misery suffered by the Red Chinese.

The United States is aware of this apparent effort, but in the long run, a continuing Sino-Indian border war would have the effect of crippling the Indian economy which just now was beginning to rise.

Teamwork Answer To Battered Baby Problem

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Articles are appearing in medical journals on parents who inflict physical abuse on their children. It is a sad commentary on the behavior of some fathers and mothers but such brutality does occur. In some instances, the baby is injured permanently or a baby covered with bruises was admitted to one of our children's hospitals. The tyke was poorly nourished, obviously neglected, and cried when moved. The mother explained that the infant had fallen from the bed. When the physician inquired about the multiple areas of discoloration, he was told that the boy bruised easily and was always covered with black and blue marks.

On the surface, the explanation sounded satisfactory but actually this was another battered baby. X-rays revealed a few broken bones in various stages of healing. In addition, the bruises disappeared while the tot was hospitalized and no new black and blue spots developed. But the family stood pat on their story.

There was presumptive evidence that the child had been neglected and mistreated. The little victim was too young to talk and the adults would not admit guilt. The situation is difficult for the physician so far as making accusations and bringing the case to the attention of the proper authorities.

On the other hand, the problem is known to most hospitals and district attorneys. The increasing number of reports by physicians indicates something is to be done about it. The solution calls for teamwork by the medical profession, public protective agencies, and the police department.

What kind of men and women are responsible for the battered child syndrome? The mother or father may be a mental case,

Now it can be told! An internationally famous newshawk was assigned to cover General MacArthur's day-by-day activities in post-war Japan. On many days there was simply no news to report, and the correspondent had a hard time eking out a full-length column. Resourceful was his middle name, however.

In the basement of the General's headquarters, just below the General's spacious private office, a very smart and very talkative bootblack had his stand. The correspondent fell into the habit of asking the bootblack his views on current affairs and invariably was favored with a long, if not too well documented report. This report the correspondent would then cable home to his syndicate, beginning the column with, "The following quote comes from someone directly under General Douglas MacArthur..."

At the annual meeting of a company that was going from bad to worse, the president was inter-

Federal Trade Commission Charges Kansas City Doctors With Monopoly

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—This week significant preliminary hearings are being held in Kansas City which may well influence future Congressional voting on medicare.

The Federal Trade Commission is charging Kansas City doctors with doing exactly what the American Medical Association charged the government with wanting to do under medicare—namely, monopolizing medical and hospital practice.

What the Kansas City doctors did, according to the FTC, was to set up their own blood bank and require patients to buy blood from their bank only. Private blood banks had their blood returned even though the patient had paid for it in advance. Naturally, a patient on the operating table isn't going to argue with his doctor as to where he gets his blood, and the doctors this week are being given a preliminary hearing on charges of monopoly and of trying to drive other blood banks out of business.

In fighting against medical care for the elderly, the doctors had claimed the government wanted to restrict free enterprise and drive them out of business. But in Kansas City, according to the official charge of the Trade Commission, the shoe is on the doctor's other foot.

Jimmy Roosevelt Scores
One Congressman who campaigned hardest on the issue of medicare was Jimmy Roosevelt of California, eldest son of FDR. Jimmy's opponent was a doctor, Henry Beltz, who was strongly opposed to medicare, and this became the most important issue between them.

One day, Dr. Beltz came to hear Roosevelt speak. Knowing his opponent was in the audience, Jimmy said:

"I want medicare passed so Dr. Beltz, when he retires, can get proper medical treatment."

Dr. Beltz rose in the audience and announced: "I've got enough money to take care of myself."

Snapped back Roosevelt: "You're thinking of yourself. I'm thinking of other people who are not so fortunate."

Roosevelt was re-elected by a big margin.

"Outstanding Socialism"

Perhaps the only Congressman definitely defeated by the doctors' lobby was Rep. Walter Moeller of Ohio, who actually never voted against the doctors but indicated that he might.

Despite this, the doctors' lobby spent an estimated $100,000 to defeat him. One of their most effective weapons was to lobby with their own patients, and the four doctors who led this campaign were Louis Uring, William Monger, William Jasper and Jack Cramer, all of Lancaster, Ohio.

Another doctor, J. C. Beesley, also of Lancaster, wrote Rep. Moeller: "You outsocialize the avowed Socialists. You may be sure that I am campaigning daily and vigorously for your defeat."

Note—Moeller, a former Lutheran minister and a moderate, is one of the few Congressmen who turn back their payroll allotment to the Treasury—the Ohio representative last year returning $27,790.

Mailbag

VERITAS, New York—The reason I have not written about gifts to President Kennedy as I did about gifts to President Eisenhower is because Kennedy has followed a very strict rule on this point. He permits no gift worth more than $25, other than a dog or a pet. Eisenhower, in contrast, received around $500,000 of financial support from three oilmen—Alton Jones of Cities Service, Billie Byars of Tyler, Texas, and George Allen—for the expenses of his farm; and, in addition, received all sorts of other gifts in cattle, horses, trees, farm machinery, tractors, electric kitchens, etc.

The one Kennedy family exception to the $25 limit was the ruby, diamond, and emerald necklace received by Mrs. Kennedy from the President of Pakistan, which I reported in some detail. I suggested that, while it was not illegal under the Constitution for Mrs. Kennedy to receive this, it might be appropriate to give it to the Junior Village, a city-operated orphanage in Washington. Mrs. Kennedy did not act on my idea, but she did tell my wife at a White House reception, "Tell your husband I'm going to give that necklace to you."

The Truman Story

The death of Mrs. Roosevelt and the prolonged illness of Winston Churchill highlight the fact that there is only one former President alive who came through the vitally important postwar years and could tell the inside postwar story—Harry S. Truman. What most people don't know, however, is that the TV networks have flatly refused to have anything to do with the "Truman Story" though it has been prepared and offered to them by David Susskind.

Truman had to make some of the great decisions of recent history—whether to fight in Korea, whether to drop the atom bomb over Hiroshima, and the decision to go ahead with the Marshall Plan for the reconstruction of Europe. How they were made can be told only by one man alive today—Mr. Truman.

They were decisions that shaped the lives of millions. Yet, though time is running out, the networks have turned thumbs down. Time magazine, hearing of the series, voluntarily offered to release its rights to material Truman had written for Time-Life, Inc.; while Westinghouse, which has developed one of the most alert, broad-minded TV stations in the country, expressed a desire to get the Truman story. But, due to network indifference, the record of a great chapter in history may remain untold.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

One of the best reporters in the country is Joe McCarthy. His family comes from Cambridge, Massachusetts, where the Irish are always in laughter or tears. Joe chose laughter and, when he isn't writing serious material, he writes jokes.

A whole book of McCarthyisms is out this week. It's published by Doubleday, called "In One Ear," and in McCarthy's case it is tin. I tried to read the book without laughing, because my family is sure that I'm nutty anyway. I couldn't. Out of hundreds of funny yarns, these are the ones I liked the best:

Joe says he knows a girl who is so nervous that she can thread a needle while the sewing machine is running. Someone said that Ray Bolger, the dancer, is so thin that if he had an ulcer he'd have to carry it in his hand.

A preacher told a little boy he'd give him a nickel if the youngster could tell him where God is. The boy said he'd give the minister a dime if he could tell him where God isn't. Then there's the sad truism: Just when your kids get old enough so you can stand them, they can't stand you.

A man trying to rent an apartment is told by the rental agent "We don't allow loud parties, no children, no dogs, no musical instruments, no hi-fi sets, no radio or t. v. after 11 P. M." The man thought about a moment. "I better not take the lease," he said. "I got a fountain pen that scratches."

A husband came home from work and told his wife an off-color story. The wife didn't laugh. "Women," she said, "have much cleaner minds than men." "They ought to," he husband growled, "they change them more often."

Then there's the one about the man who went to a psychiatrist complaining of a poor memory. "I go to the supermarket," he said, "and I can't remember what my wife sent me for. The boss tells me to do something and in two minutes I forget what it was." The psychiatrist nodded solemnly. "How long has this been going on?" he asked. The patient sighed. "How long has what been going on?" he said.

A pharmacist was in the back of the store working and a shattering explosion occurred. He came out front with a blackened face, his white jacket hanging in shreds and his glasses shattered. "Ask your doctor," he said to a woman at the counter, "to rewrite that prescription and this time tell him to print it."

Traveling salesman in a small town complained because the railroad station was so far out of town. "Why didn't you saps build it in the town?" he demanded. The station agent shrugged. "I don't know," he said. "We thought it would be a good idea to have it close to the tracks."

An 82-year-old sport went to the doctor complaining that his hands fluttered so much that it looked like he was always waving bye-bye. The doctor told him that he probably drank a lot. "Nope," the patient said. "I spill most of it."

A farmer had a mule he couldn't manage. He hired an expert mule trainer. The expert stood in front of the animal, picked up a sledge hammer, and smacked the mule between the eyes. "Don't kill him," the farmer pleaded. "Who's killing him?" the trainer said. "I'm just trying to get his attention."

McCarthy tells about two forebearers in Ireland who were assigned the task of shooting a turncoat. They waited half the night in front of the man's home without seeing him. "Glory be to God," one said. "I hope the poor fella hasn't met with an accident."

An Irishman was showing a non-Catholic friend through the village church. "What's that?" said the visitor, pointing to a confessional. "That," said the Irishman, "is our fire escape."

Two movie stars were discussing a dress. "You remember that backless, frontless, sideless dress I wore to the preview last week?" the first one said. "I remember," the other girl said. "Well," the first one said. "I just found out it isn't a dress at all. It's a belt."

Jackie Gleason stepped on a penny weighing machine. A card popped out. It read: "Come back in ten minutes—alone." A saloon keeper was found asleep when the phone rang. The caller was drunk. "What time does your place open?" the man said. "Ten A. M.," the tavern owner said, and hung up. He was sleeping again when the phone rang. The voice on the other end was the same. "What time do you open in the morning?"

"Listen," the saloon keeper said. "There's no sense asking me what time I open because I wouldn't let a drunk like you in my place." "Who wants to get in?" the drunk snarled. "I'm trying to get out." . . .

West Virginia Deer Season Opens Today

Legal Kill Limited To Bucks Only

Thousands of hunters were expected to take to the woods Monday to open West Virginia's 1962 week-long deer season.

The State Department of Natural Resources said it expected more than 100,000 hunters to go after their bucks on opening day.

This is the second year in a row that the kill has been limited to bucks only in an attempt to build up the deer population. Hunters' choice seasons were tried starting in 1951.

Bucks will be legal game in that area north and east of the New River and the Kanawha River with a few exceptions. Fayette County will be closed as will portions of Greenbrier and Nicholas counties.

All of the area to the south and west of Kanawha River and New River shall be closed.

T. R. Samsell, assistant chief of the department's game management division, said included in the legal territory was the area north and east of New and Kanawha rivers.

Archers have been stalking deer since the small - game season opened in West Virginia Oct. 13. However, they and the small-game hunters will have to set their weapons aside during the six-day gun season on deer.

Samsell said about 5,000 deer were killed during the 1961 season but that this year more kills will be recorded if the pleasant fall weather continues.

Samsell said some hunters like to see snow on the ground so they can follow deer tracks. However, he said cold weather would tend to reduce a hunter's stay in the woods.

The department also is expecting the hunting accident rate to be somewhat lower this season in comparison with past seasons.

Samsell said the Eastern Panhandle section, particularly the Sleepy Creek Public Hunting areas in Berkeley and Morgan counties, should produce more kills than usual.

Also listed as excellent locations are the Short and Nathaniel Mountain Public Hunting areas in Randolph, Pocahontas, Tucker, and Pendleton counties.

In the northern part of the state the department lists Wetzel, Ritchie, Doddridge, Taylor, and Preston Counties as good areas.

The department cautioned hunters that only bucks with one or both antlers three inches or more in length are legal kill. It also reminded hunters that they should ask permission before hunting on private land.

Giants Clinch NFL Eastern Division Title By Beating Chicago, 26-24

Don Chandler's Fourth FG Wins Savage Battle

Fights, Penalties
Punctuate Contest
At Wrigley Field

CHICAGO (UPI) — The New York Giants, once regarded "too old" to win this year's Eastern Division title, qualified Sunday for their 13th National Football League championship playoff when Don Chandler's fourth field goal of the game provided them with a savagely-fought 26-24 victory over the Chicago Bears.

Chandler's 16-yard field goal in the sixth minute of the final period represented the Giants' margin of victory in a game punctuated by fisticuffs and penalties before a crowd of 49,043 at Wrigley Field.

The victory was the Giants' seventh straight and gave them an insurmountable 10-2 record in the Eastern Division with two games left to play. This was New York's second consecutive division title under coach Al Sherman and its fifth in the past seven seasons.

Y. A. Tittle, the Giant's bald 35-year-old quarterback, threw a pair of first-half touchdown passes that gave them a 17-14 lead. Chandler preserved that advantage with his field goals of 47 and 37 yards in the third quarter before booting his 16-yarder in the final period.

After the Bears had cut the Giants' lead to two points on a 25-yard pass from Billy Wade to Angelo Coia with 6:38 left to play, Chandler punted the Giants out of danger with a 50-yard boot into the end zone. He had kicked a 26-yard field goal for New York's first points.

The Bears conceivably might have balked the Giants' pennant-clincher had it not been for the hot-headedness of defensive end Ed Obradovich.

With New York leading only 20-17 late in the third period, Obradovich threw a punch at halfback Phil King of the Giants and was ejected from the game. The Bears also were penalized 15 yards on the play back to their own 29-yard line and minutes later Chandler kicked his third field goal from the 37.

The Giants' halfback substitute, Joe Morrison, was an important factor in setting up Chandler's fourth field goal. Morrison caught a 16-yard pass from Tittle and gained 26 yards in three carries to put the ball into position for Chandler's kick.

The Giants' defense also played an important role in the victory. They blocked a first-half field goal try by Chicago's Roger LeClerc and intercepted four of Wade's passes. Jimmy Patton, the "old pro" of the Giants' defensive backfield, stole three passes.

Following Chandler's fourth field goal at 5:09 of the final period, Wade passed the Bears to their final touchdown, but the Giants ran out the clock on the running of Alex Webster and Morrison and then drove the Bears back on Chandler's long punt.

Ragan Is Winner Over Doug Sanders

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., survived a flight into a palm tree on the 18th hole and then beat Doug Sanders on the second Oakland Raiders Sunday, that the West Palm Beach Golf Tournament Sunday.

Ragan burned up the back nine with a 4-under-par 32 for a four-round total of 277—despite the episode of the palm tree. He shot 68 on the par 72 6,900-yard course and Sanders carded a 70.

Ragan's second shot to the 18th green landed 9 feet up in a small cabbage palm. He placed the ball on the ground for a one-stroke penalty and then two-putted the green for a bogey 6.

Bowl Picture Nearly Complete As College Grid Season Ends

Southern Cal
Lays Claim To National Title

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Over 80,000 howling voices hailing Southern California's unbeaten, untied and undaunted Trojans. A ripple of applause for bowl-bound Mississippi, Alabama and Miami of Florida. And a battered bell's rusty ring saluting Navy's mastery over Army.

Those were the final sounds that echoed throughout the country last Saturday as college football ran through its wind-up weekend and left only a few holes to plug in the post-season bowl puzzle.

Southern California, headed for a Rose Bowl meeting with Big Ten champion Wisconsin, finished off its first perfect season in 30 years with a 25-0 walloping of rising Notre Dame and laid claim to the West Coast's first national title since 1939.

While the Trojans were protecting their No. 1 ranking and taking another giant stride closer to the crown that will be determined this week in the final poll, Navy was already celebrating its 34-14 rout of Army in the traditional year-end meeting of the service academies.

Navy Soph Stars
President John F. Kennedy, a crowd of 100,000 and a national television audience watched as Navy unveiled its usual psychological gimmicks and went on to its fourth consecutive triumph over the Cadets on the running and passing of sophomore sensation Roger Staubach.

The victory made Wayne Hardin the only Middle coach ever to run up four straight over Army and foiled the plans of Coach Paul

Celtics Defeat Cincy, 128-127

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The Boston Celtics cooled off the hot Cincinnati Royals Sunday night, coming from behind for a 128-127 overtime victory on the clutch shooting of Tom Heinsohn before 8,719, the largest crowd of the local season.

The defeat ended a four-game win streak for the Royals and prevented them from moving into second place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

Detroit Beats Colts To Keep Chances Alive

Earl Morrall Hero
Of 21-14 Triumph

DETROIT (UPI) — Second string quarterback Earl Morrall came off the bench in the final period Sunday to lead the Detroit Lions to a 21-14 victory over the Baltimore Colts and preserve the Lions' slim chance for the National Football League's Western Division title.

The Lions were staring defeat in the face in the fourth quarter when Johnny Unitas led the Colts to two quick touchdowns and a 14-7 lead. But Morrall replaced Milt Plum to lead the Lions' two drives that netted 14 points and a victory.

Morrall scored one of the touchdowns himself on a one-yard plunge and passed 11 yards to fullback Nick Pietrosante for the winning marker with less than two minutes left.

Unitas Fumbles
The Lions, who trail the division leading Green Bay Packers by a full game, scored the game's first touchdown in the opening minutes of play. Baltimore took the opening kickoff and on the first play Unitas fumbled when he ran into one of his own men and Carl Brettschneider recovered for the Lions on the 21. It took eight plays to score, with Tommy Watkins going over from the one.

That was the only score until the wild final period. The Lions had several good opportunities to score but muffed them. With less than a minute left in the half, the Lions had a first down on the Colt one yard line. Fullback Ken Webb smashed over the goal line for an apparent touchdown, but had neglected to take the ball with him. The Colts recovered his fumble on the two.

TD Nullified
On another occasion, Plum passed for a long touchdown but it was called back when Detroit was detected holding.

The Lions moved into field goal range in the third period, but Wayne Walker's try from the 39 was low and far to the left.

Unitas finally got the Colts rolling at the end of the third period. He led them on an 80-yard touchdown drive, climaxed by his five-yard scoring pass to Berry, which tied the score at 7-7. The next time the Colts had the ball, Unitas put them ahead, 14-7, on a 49-yard pass to Jimmy Orr.

Then Morrall entered the game. He took the Lions on two long scoring drives, the last of them set up when Joe Schmidt intercepted a Unitas pass on the Colt 44.

Hornung Back, Packers Roll Over LA, 41-10

Green Bay Moves
Closer To Crown

By GENE HINTZ

United Press International
MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Green Bay's "Golden Boy" Paul Hornung, made his long-awaited comeback Sunday and teamed with quarterback Bart Starr and fullback Jim Taylor to lead the Packers to a 41-10 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

Hornung, who hadn't seen extended action since an injury seven weeks ago against Minnesota, scored the Packers' first touchdown on a 30-yard pass from Starr and later took a 35-yard pass from Starr to set up Green Bay's second score.

Taylor scored twice to run his National Football League leading total to 102 points. Starr also passed to Ron Kramer for four yards and a touchdown, and Jerry Kramer kicked 35 and 37 yard field goals as well as adding five extra points.

Los Angeles, catching Green Bay on the rebound from its first loss of the year Thanksgiving Day at Detroit, moved the ball well behind rookie quarterback Roman Gabriel, but was unable to come through on the crucial plays to keep the drives going.

Rams Score First
The Rams scored first in the opening period on a 13-yard field goal by Danny Villanueva and took advantage of a Green Bay fumble to move into the end zone for their touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Dick Bass, the game's leading ground gainer, scored the Los Angeles touchdown, completing a 25 yard play by taking a lateral from Gabriel and moving the final 12 yards to the goal.

The Packers, using reserves, came right back to score another touchdown with three minutes left. Rookie Earl Gros went over from 15 yards out after picking up 25 yards in two previous carries.

The Packers now must win only one of two games on the West Coast against the Rams and San Francisco to wrap up at least a tie for a third successive Western Division crown.

Hornung Gains 27
Hornung, who had played only briefly against Philadelphia since the injury to his right knee Oct. 14, got a prolonged shot at running from halfback and gained 27 yards in nine carries, as well as catching two passes and throwing one which was intercepted.

He left the game limping in the third quarter but was believed to be just tired and not suffering an aggravation of the injury.

Buffalo, N.Y. (UPI) — Quarterback Jack Kemp put on an amazing passing display before a record Buffalo crowd of 35,261 Sunday in leading the Bills to a 23-14 victory over the mighty Dallas Texans.

Kemp threw two touchdown passes and completed 21 of 35 attempts for 248 yards as Buffalo squared its record at 6-6 in the Eastern Division. The loss snapped Dallas' three-game winning streak and gave the Western Division leaders a 9-3 record.

Kemp fired one-yard touchdown passes in the first half to end Tom Rychlec and end Ernie Warlick, and his passing set up fullback Cookie Gilchrist's two-yard scoring burst midway through the final period.

Gilchrist, who added a 37-yard field goal early in the third period and two of three extra points established an AFL rushing mark by gaining 63 yards on 19 carries.

The performance gave the 243-pound fullback 953 yards in 197 rushes, surpassing the 948 yards rolled up by Houston's Billy Cannon last year.

Quarterback Len Dawson, who connected on 19 of 34 passes for 202 yards, steered a Dallas comeback in the second half. Dawson hit end Fred Arbanas with a 13-yard TD pass in the third period and combined with end Tom Brooker on a 28-yard payoff pass early in the final quarter. It gave Dawson 28 touchdown passes for the year and marked the 12th straight game in which he had thrown at least one scoring strike.

LaSalle And Piedmont Cop Victories In PVC Openers

Potomac State

Win; ACC Loses

The high school basketball season was ushered into the area Saturday night with a pair of Potomac Valley Conference clashes in which LaSalle's defending co-champions beat Fort Ashby, 61-53, and Piedmont downed Elk Garden, 48-26.

All three area college quints were in action Saturday. Frostburg State defeated Baltimore University, 70-59, and Potomac State romped over Altoona Campus, 103-64. Allegany Community College dropped a 64-58 decision to Frostburg's junior varsity.

After trailing throughout most of the first half, LaSalle's Explorers came to life in the third period and overcame a four-point intermission deficit to surge ahead, 50-41.

Nolan Leads LaSalle
Jo Nolan, only regular back from last year's championship squad, led LaSalle in scoring with 19 points. Mike Madden was runner-up in the point department with 12. Gary Mangus paced the Golden Eagles with 17 tallies. Piedmont also caught fire in the second half after leading by only ten points (24-14) at the end of the second quarter. Larry Patterson and Keith Russell, with 16 and 15 points respectively, sparked the Lions' attack, while Tom Evans was high for the low-scoring Elks with six.

Veteran senior George Lauder and sophomore Bill Whitson led the Bobcats of Frostburg to their victory. The latter topped all scorers with 25 points, and Lauder was right behind with 22.

Five Hit Double
Five players hit double figures for Potomac State as the Catamounts went over the century mark in their initial outing. Dave Felton was high man with 17, Jim Courrier collected 11 and the trio of Donnie Shields, Ralph McFarland and Don Harmon accounted for a dozen apiece.

Allegany Community College, winner earlier in the week over a Frostburg Fraternity squad, lost to the FSTC junior varsity cagers Saturday in a preliminary contest to the varsity game.

Hubeck and Sterne paced the Bobkittens with 17 and 15 points, but ACC's Jan Withrow took game scoring honors with 20. Glenn Larned pumped in 15 for the losing Trojans.

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Houston Oilers turned three pass interceptions and a blocked kick into scores Sunday to down the Denver Broncos 34-17 in the mud.

The loss eliminated Denver's title hopes in the Western Division of the American Football League. The victory kept Houston a half game ahead of the second place Boston Patriots in the Eastern Division.

The Oilers set a new AFL league record by intercepting eight passes. The old record was six.

A steady rain that started shortly before the game did, turned into a heavy downpour by halftime, handicapping the running game of both teams.

The Broncos threw 53 passes and the Oilers 44 for a total of 94, another AFL single game record.

The Oilers, leading 24-17, iced the game in the last quarter after picking off a Denver pass on the Broncos' 15, allowing George Blanda to kick a field goal.

Only one team was eliminated from the select list Saturday, last weekend of the regular season. Northern State of South Dakota, which had won nine straight, lost to Lenoir Rhyne 20-7 in the eastern regional championship game of the NAIA playoffs.

Lenoir Rhyne, unbeaten and untied in 11 games, plays another perfect record team, Central Oklahoma State next Saturday in the NAIA title game.

Southern Cal, Mississippi and Dartmouth are the only major teams to go through the season unbeaten and untied.

The unbeaten and untied: Lenoir Rhyne (11-0); Southern California and College of Emporia (10-0); Dartmouth, Mississippi, Florida A&M, Central Oklahoma State, St. John's (Minn.) Parsons, Susquehanna and Wittenberg (9-0); Carthage (Ill.), Earlham and Kalamazoo (8-0) and John Carroll (7-0).

Hetzel Scores 22, Fouls Out As Team Loses

Heyman's 36 Paces
Duke; Terps Lose
To Nittany Lions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The new basketball season has opened for Atlantic Coast Conference teams, and Art Heyman of Duke did well, as usual. But the Blue Devils, ranked second nationally in the Associated Press pre-season poll, had a hard time with little Davidson before winning 76-68 Saturday night.

Heyman scored 36 points. A 6-foot-8 Davidson sophomore, Fred Hetzel, scored 22 and kept the Southern Conference team in the game until he fouled out with 12 minutes, 41 seconds to play.

Yogi Poteet, honoring his father's death wish that he play, was high man with 21 points for North Carolina, an 89-65 victory over Georgia. Poteet then went home to Hendersonville, N. C., for his father's funeral.

Big 10 clubs beat two ACC teams. Minnesota won 78-66 over Wake Forest, which took third place in last year's NCAA tournament. Dave Wideman of Wake Forest was the game's high scorer with 30 points, 18 in the first half.

Jimmy Ray's 35 points led Indiana to a 90-58 victory over Virginia. Gene Engel made 17 points for the Cavaliers, who must face powerful Cincinnati Monday and Ohio State Wednesday.

Maryland Loses
Penn State used an effective backcourt press in the last 10 minutes to come from behind and edge Maryland 62-61. Maryland, which had led by 13 points in the second half, made only three field goals in the last 11 minutes and 43 seconds.

Jerry Greenspan of the losing Terrapins was high pointmaker with 21 points.

South Carolina found Erskine tougher than expected, and didn't go ahead until less than two minutes remained. The Gamecocks pulled it out 68-61. Scotti Ward was high point man with 19.

Clemson, the only ACC team which didn't open its season Saturday, plays its first game Monday, at home to North Carolina State. Other games Monday are Virginia at Cincinnati and Wake Forest at Marquette.

The rest of the week's schedule: Tuesday—South Carolina at Duke, Maryland at Georgetown. Wednesday — Clemson at North Carolina, Virginia at Ohio State. Thursday — South Carolina at Georgia.

Friday—no games scheduled. Saturday — Maryland at Duke, North Carolina at South Carolina, Clemson at Georgia, Wake Forest at North Carolina State, Virginia at Richmond.

Allegany County Deer Kills Saturday Nine Below All-Time Record

Gunners Slay 415 Bucks On Opening Day

Four Hunters Slay 160-Pounders; 267 Killed In Garrett

Four hundred and fifteen deer were bagged by hunters in Allegany county Saturday as Maryland's 7-day gunning season got under way, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The first day's total exceeded by 57 last year's total of 358 for the initial day and was only nine below the all-time record of 424 recorded in 1960.

Minke stated that 65 of the deer slain in Allegany county were checked in Washington county by hunters homeward bound, one was checked in Baltimore county and the remainder were brought to the four stations in Allegany county, namely, the LaVale Barracks of the Maryland State Police, Hess' Service Station, Oldtown, Jake's Service Station, Westernport, and Shipway's on Green Ridge.

Booth Gets 160-Pounder
The deer kill tags indicated that the biggest deer killed on the first day was brought down by Jackie Booth, of Route 3, Frostburg. Booth killed the 160-pound animal on his property at Piney Mountain.

Thomas Knotts, of Rawlings, killed a 165-pound, eight-pointer, on Dan's Mountain, Cletus Meyers, Ellerslie, slew a whitetail with 10 points and scaling 164 on Little Allegany Mountain.

Charles R. Hamilton, 203 Mary Street, Cumberland, bagged a 160-pounder with seven points on Town Hill.

The majority of deer killed Saturday weighed between 90 and 100 pounds.

Minke stated that hunters' guns accounted for 267 in Garrett county and 200 in Washington county.

No hunting accidents were reported in Region No. 1, comprising Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties.

Shooting Resumes Today
The season resumes today and winds up Saturday at sunset. Allegany county's season high is 780, established in 1960. A record of 802 kills were recorded in Garrett county the same year.

Last year's 7-day totals were: 655 for Allegany, 638 for Garrett, and 400 for Washington.

Trotters Make Fitness Fund $900 Richer

Approximately $900 was added to the treasury of Allegany County's Youth Fitness Program Saturday night when the Harlem Globetrotters played the San Francisco All-Nations team in a benefit contest at the Allegany High gymnasium.

According to Bob Pence, who as county supervisor of physical education heads up the fitness program, more than 1300 fans witnessed the exhibition performance. Gate receipts totaled $2525, of which the Trotters received 65 per cent, or about $1600.

Pence said the proceeds from the game will be used for one of several tentative projects being planned by his department.

Eagles Wallop Fading Redskins

Suffer Fifth Loss In Six Games, 37-14

By BOB SERLING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tim Brown's 99-yard kickoff return fired up a Philadelphia team trailing by two touchdowns Sunday and the Eagles went on to flatten the fading Washington Redskins, 37-14.

The Skins had just scored their second touchdown on the opening play of the second period when Brown fired his bomb — going up the middle and then swinging wide into daylight down the sidelines. From then on it was a Redskins rout with Sonny Jurgensen tossing a couple of six-pointers and even flanker Tommy McDonald getting into the passing act with a surprise 10-yard pitch to Brown in the Tribe's end zone.

Jurgensen, who had 14 completions in 19 attempts, brought the Eagles to an even keel with his first touchdown pass, a 12-yarder to Pete Retzlaff. Then it was Brown with a 30-yard scoring shot off tackle after a 77-yard drive. McDonald's TD-toss on a fake end-around and Jurgensen's 49-yard shot to ex-Villanova sprint star Frank Budd.

The Eagles, winning their third game of the year, got their final three points on a 27-yard field goal by John Wittenborn late in the final period.

For the collapsing Redskins, it was the fifth loss in the last six games even though the Tribe started out on the right foot. Norm Snead completed seven of his first eight passes, two for touchdowns, that gave the Skins their early lead.

Norm hit Steve Junker for the first and speared Dick James with a 10-yard shot for Washington's final score. Both touchdowns climaxed long drives.

St. Bonaventure, Kentucky Lose To Unheralded Teams

By United Press International
Cincinnati, Duke, West Virginia and Loyola of Chicago all lived up to their pre-season notices Saturday night, but the stunning upsets suffered by Kentucky and St. Bonaventure indicate that it may be a long winter for the high ranking college basketball teams.

The powerful Bearcats, No. 1 team in the nation, blitzed little DePaul, 97-39; second-ranked Duke defeated Davidson, 76-68; fourth-ranked West Virginia spanked The Citadel, 86-61, and Loyola, No. 5 on the list, romped past Christian Brothers, 114-58.

But the results that caused the most double takes were Virginia Tech's 80-77 decision over Kentucky and Southern Illinois' 73-66 in over St. Bonaventure in games that were supposed to be little more than warmups for the third-ranked Wildcats and eighth-ranked Bonnies.

It was only the first time since 1926 that Kentucky has dropped its season opener and marked the first such indignity for its famous coach, Adolph Rupp. But perhaps even more stunning was St. Bonaventure's loss to an unheralded school which had bowed to Gannon the night before.

Things couldn't have been better at Cincinnati, though, which is seeking the national crown after finishing runnerup to Ohio State the last two seasons. The Bearcats scored at will against DePaul and the starting five enjoyed a 34-6 burst to open the second half. Ron Bonham of Cincinnati led all scorers with 23 points.

John Brodie Fires 4 Touchdown Passes

MINNEAPOLIS-St. Paul (UPI) — John Brodie riddled the Minnesota Vikings' defense with four touchdown passes Sunday to lead the San Francisco 49ers to a 35-12 National Football League victory and make "Leo Nomellini Day" a success.

Brodie hit his favorite receiver Bernie Casey for three touchdowns in the second half to bring San Francisco from a halftime deficit.

The 49ers actually won the game early in the final half when a 45-yard kickoff return by Jim Vollenweider set up the deciding score. San Francisco moved 34 yards on four plays with Casey grabbing a 20-yard pass for the tally.

Tommy Davis booted five extra points to run his consecutive string to 128.

Nomellini, the veteran San Francisco tackle, was honored by his former University of Minnesota teammates after tying an NFL record of playing in 158 consecutive league contests.

The victory enables the 49ers to hit the 500 mark for the season and was loss No. 9 for Minnesota against two victories and one tie.

San Francisco 7 0 7 21-35
Minnesota 3 7 2 0-12

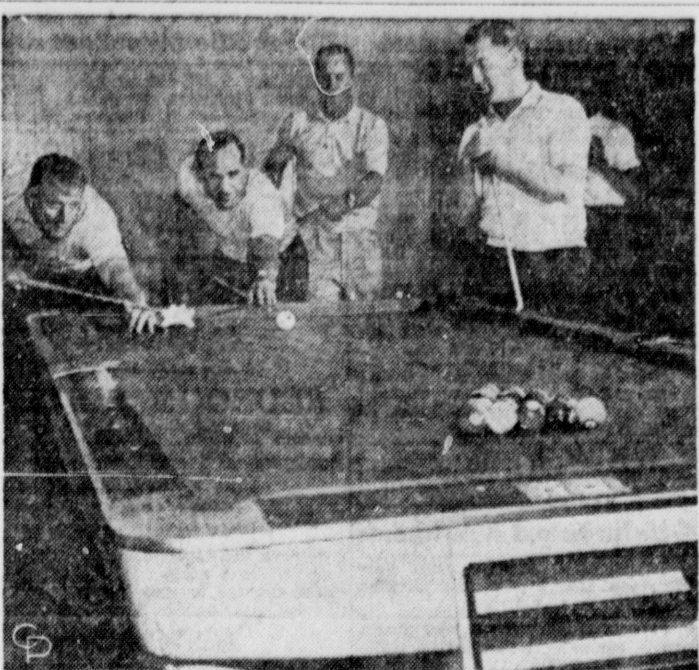

Scoring:
SF — Johnson 46 pass from Brodie (Davis kick)
Minn — FG Christopheron 27

SF — Casey 20 pass from Brodie (Davis kick)
SF — Casey 46 pass from Brodie (Davis kick)
SF — Casey 40 pass from Brodie (Davis kick)
SF — Smith 17 run (Davis kick)
Attendance — 33,076.

TORONTO (AP) — Winnipeg officially won the Grey Cup, symbol of the Canadian professional football championship, by completing its fog-interrupted 28-27 thriller over Hamilton Sunday.

A dense fog had forced postponement of the balance of the game Saturday with 9 minutes, 29 seconds remaining. Canadian Football League Commissioner Sydney Halter ordered the balance of the contest to be played Sunday.

No scoring resulted in Sunday's completion.

McMorran Gets Hero Award For Rescue

Insurance Agents Present Plaque

James McMorran of Frostburg Fire Company was presented a heroism award yesterday by James Conlon, representative of Allegany-Garrett Independent Insurance Agents, at an executive board meeting of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

McMorran was given a citation in the form of an engraved plaque for his efforts in rescuing one of two children in a trailer fire at Frostburg May 31, 1961. A posthumous award was presented at a meeting last year to the widow of James Lamberson, also of the Frostburg company, who rescued the second child and later died of his injuries. Both of the children later died in Miners Hospital.

The heroism award is one of two awards presented by the insurance agents, the other being the annual fireman of the year award.

Mr. Conlon was introduced by Henry Wintermyer of LaVale Fire Company, chairman of the heroism committee.

Charles Crawford, Bowling Green, presided at the session which opened with prayer by Felix Foote, chaplain, Lonaconing. Twenty-two companies were represented at the meeting, with nine past presidents attending.

Training Scheduled

Cromwell Zembower, chairman of the training committee, reported that the basic course offered by the Fire Extension Service of University of Maryland will be given at Bedford Road, Midland, Cresaptown and LaVale-Bowling Green, at LaVale.

An advanced course is being offered at Deer Park. The Fire Extension Service is contacting each department regarding a six-weeks training course which will be held on Saturdays from 1 until 5 p. m.

The Bloomington Fire Company reported on its efforts to become a part of the Allegany County Civil Defense Agency. They have received agreement from the Maryland agency and the Garrett County Commissioners for their participation, and are awaiting a reply from Charles Smith, director of Civil Defense for Allegany County. Funds necessary for their participation will come from department funds. At the present time, most of Bloomington calls are for Allegany County, the company reported.

Carnival Planned

The association voted to sponsor a carnival in September as a project. LaVale Plaza shopping center has offered the use of its grounds for this purpose. Alvin Rankin, Frostburg, was appointed chairman of arrangements for the project.

Mr. Rankin, who also is chairman of the muscular dystrophy drive, requested companies to collect MD canisters for the next meeting January 6 at Baltimore Pike fire hall.

A memorial service was conducted for Sheridan Powell, Bedford Road; James Hanna, Frostburg; and Harry Klosterman, LaVale. Mr. Crawford appointed three members to the appropriations committee to replace those named previously. They are Robert Bowman, replacing Charles Merritt, District 16; Alvin Rankin, replacing Thomas Sluss, Frostburg; and David E. Kirk, replacing Jack Beeman, Bowling Green. Other members of the committee are Cromwell Zembower, chairman; Jack Eichhorn, Lonaconing; Luther Metz, Barton, and Calvin Growden, Bedford Road.

A letter of thanks from Russell H. Carder of Shaft, newly elected county commissioner, was read to association members.

A chicken dinner was served following the meeting.

County PTA Meets Today

The Allegany County PTA Council will meet today at Northeast School, Bowman's Addition, according to Mrs. Claude Ward, president.

Presidents of the various units will convene at 7:30 p.m., and the executive committee will meet at 7:45 p.m. The general meeting will be at 8 p.m.

The program will consist of Christmas music presented by the mixed chorus of Bruce High School, Westernport. Ralph R. Webster, county superintendent of schools, will present a talk on "Equalization Money from the State and How It Affects the Schools."

Refreshments will be served by the Bowman's Addition PTA.

Firemen Commended

Ellerslie and Corriagville volunteer firemen who battled a fire at the Sines Sawmill, Ellerslie, Friday afternoon, were commended for their efforts yesterday by Thomas Sines, Friendsville, owner of the sawmill.

The sawmill was incorrectly listed as the Haines sawmill in the Saturday edition of The Cumberland News.

Elks Honor Deceased Members

These men had principal roles yesterday in the annual memorial service of Cumberland Lodge 63, B.P.O. Elks, in which the local Elks paid tribute to 13 members who have died in the past year. From left are Joseph E. Mackert, exalted ruler of the lodge; Rev. Ernest Horning, O.F.M. Cap., pastor of St. Peter & Paul

Catholic Church and a member of the lodge, who was the speaker; Bruce M. Mackey, district deputy grand exalted ruler and a past exalted ruler of the lodge, who gave the eulogy; and George A. Caswell, chairman of the memorial committee. The sanctuary choir of Centre Street Methodist Church sang.

Postal Employees Receive Awards At Annual Event

Local post office employees were given awards and one retired employee was honored at the annual Employee Recognition Night dinner Saturday at LaVale Fire hall.

The main speaker for the evening was Fred M. Maguire, chief of employment and placement branch of the Washington Region, U. S. Post Office.

State Traffic Accidents Take Seven Lives

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents took four lives in Maryland Sunday, running the death toll for the weekend to 7.

Robert H. Perkins, 62, of Stevensville, Md., was killed when the car in which he was riding collided with another vehicle on Maryland 2 in Glen Burnie.

Perkins, who was pinned in the front seat of the car, was dead on arrival at South Baltimore General Hospital.

Andrew M. Church, 29, of Baltimore, died when his car rammed into a steel light pole at North Ave. and Gay St. in Baltimore. He was alone in the car at the time of the accident.

Ralph Atkinson, 53, of Elkton, drowned when his car overturned in a stream two miles west of Elkton.

State police said Atkinson was trapped in the automobile with his head under water.

The accident happened on a private road along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks. Officers said Atkinson's car went off the road, up a steep grade and then down a 33-foot embankment, overturning in the stream.

Pfc. James E. Shiner, 19, of Edgewood, Md., died early Sunday morning of injuries received in an accident Saturday night at the Army Medical Center at Edgewood.

Police said the car in which Shiner was a passenger struck a pole on the Army base.

The driver of the car, James Stephens, 19, of Edgewood, was hospitalized in Aberdeen with a fractured skull and cuts.

Police said Shiner was attached to the 4th Missile Battalion at the chemical center.

Three persons died in accidents Saturday.

The death toll for the year on state highways stood at 533 Sunday night, compared with 405 at the same time the previous year. Neither the deaths of Shiner nor Atkinson counted in the official toll since neither occurred on state highways.

Left Turn Lane Is Provided At A&P Market

The Cumberland Police Department has painted traffic lanes on Greene Street at the A&P market to speed the flow of traffic at that point, according to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

He said a center holding lane with arrows, has been painted in the street for the use of vehicles which wish to make left turns into the market.

The holding lane is long enough to accommodate three or four cars waiting until they have the right of way.

A sign, "Market Traffic Use Center Lane," has been placed along the right lane to advise drivers of the upcoming holding lane, he said.

New Memorial Hospital Wing Will Be Built

Revised Plans To Add 51 Beds

The board of governors of Memorial Hospital has adopted a revised plan under which a $1,667,104 modernization program can be carried on without interruption of hospital services.

Calling for the erection of a separate new four-story wing connected to the existing east wing by enclosed ramps, the revised plan will also have an estimated $750,000 in revenues which would have been lost during the two years the job is expected to take.

Changing the location of the new facility from facing Ridgewood Avenue to the south side of the east wing will boost the capacity of the hospital from 252 to 300 beds.

The original plan would have added only 10 beds, and up to 100 beds would have been taken out of service during construction.

Decide On Wing

Following considerable study, the board and the architects, Fisher, Nes, Campbell and Associates of Baltimore, decided to build a self-contained four-story unit.

The important factor in making the decision was not the loss of revenue, but the loss of use of 100 beds during the period of construction of the original plan.

The new building will be 81 feet eight inches wide and 166 feet eight inches long, and will be erected on the ground between the east wing and the parking lot.

The one-story building in the upper parking lot will be torn down to make way for the new structure.

The ground floor of the annex will contain a mechanical department, general storage quarters, medical record room, medical library, and doctors' lounge.

The first floor will include operating rooms, recovery rooms, central sterilization, cystoscopy room, and medical-surgical patients' rooms.

Prepare Plans

The second floor will have all beds, 51 of them, for medical-surgical patients.

The third floor will contain the obstetrics department, nurseries and maternity section.

The fourth floor will be for pediatrics, increasing the hospital's capacity for these young patients by 16 beds. There will be a playroom, waiting room, demonstration and consultation areas.

George B. Newman, board president, reported that the architects will have the plans ready in a minimum of six months and bids will be advertised for construction as soon as they are available.

Local Rotary Club To Meet Tomorrow

The Rotary Club will honor the Chambersburg (Pa.) Rotary Club at a meeting tomorrow at 12:15 p.m. at the Central YMCA.

Representing the Chambersburg club will be Thomas Finucane, president, and Norman Roberts.

Francis A. Kenney, local Rotarian and manager of the local office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security, will speak on "Labor Relations."

Reservations Due

The community service group of the Womans Civic Club will hold a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m. Thursday at the club house. Reservations should be made by tomorrow with Mrs. Edward Dove, PA 2-5660.

Douglas Will Speak On Sewage Unit Work

William A. Douglas, chairman of the City-County Water-Sewer Commission, will speak on the commission's work at a dinner meeting of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

'Career Day' Considered Successful

Pupils, Speakers Evaluate Program

Evaluation reports by students of Allegany County public schools and consultants from all walks of life who participated in "Career Day" earlier this month at Allegany High School were discussed recently by Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools and guidance counselors of the schools.

Mr. Petry spoke on the evaluation reports of the consultants and the counselors made reports on the students' reactions of the respective schools.

School officials were pleased with the reports and look forward to incorporating suggestions for "Career Day" next year.

Some 950 juniors and seniors and 70 consultants participated in the program here November 12, a highlight of American Education Week.

A large percentage of the students indicated they now have a better idea of what choice of career to follow after graduation.

Almost 100 per cent of the consultants indicated the interest shown by students warranted their time and also felt the details of the conference were carefully and sufficiently planned.

The consultants' reaction to the student hosts, who were 10th graders from Allegany, was complimentary. Mr. Petry said they felt it was a worthwhile program.

The consultants also indicated they would be glad to return next year to the conference and tell students about the various careers they might follow.

Mrs. Flora C. Lease and Mrs. Geraldine Mann, English instructors at Allegany, were coaches of the student hosts.

James Preaskorn, Valley High, president of the counselors unit, expressed satisfaction with the program and thanked all who participated.

HFC Foundation Aids Md. Colleges

Privately - supported coeducational and male liberal arts colleges and universities in Maryland are among 525 in the United States which have just received checks totaling $77,000 from Household Finance Foundation, according to J. E. Paupe, manager of the Household Finance Corporation office at 12 South Centre Street.

Checks nationally ranged from $50 to $1,000 based upon the full-time enrollment of the colleges. Among those benefitting were Johns Hopkins University, Loyola, Mt. St. Mary's, St. John's, Washington and Western Maryland Colleges, most of which have area students enrolled.

Since 1956 when HFC established its annual program of gifts, they have totaled more than $450,000.

Franklin Dedicates New Post Office

FRANKLIN, W. Va. (AP)—Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., was the principal speaker Saturday at the dedication of a new post office here.

Also on hand for the ceremonies was F. Alvin Webb, deputy director, Washington regional office, U. S. Post Office Department. Rep. Harley O. Staggers had been scheduled to speak, but he was unable to attend.

The new post office has been open for business since October 29.

W. Glenn Sponaugle has been named acting postmaster, succeeding Alice McCoy, who resigned after 29 years in the job.

Answers Alarm

West Side firemen extinguished a grass fire on Kelly Boulevard in back of the Kelly Apartments yesterday afternoon. The company responded to the alarm at 2:55 p.m. and returned at 4:40 p.m.

Report On City Resources Will Be Presented

Planning Board Meets Tomorrow

A report on the analysis of physical resources of the City of Cumberland will be presented to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission tomorrow night.

The report, the third in a series, will be submitted by Blair and Stein Associates, the city's planning consultant, during a meeting planned in City Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Presenting the report, which is subject to review by the commission before it is adopted as part of the city's master plan, will be John R. Joyner, resident planner, and George Marcou, associate of the planning firm.

The report, Mr. Joyner said, will discuss the city's land use patterns and problems, problems of topography and some of the most pronounced traffic patterns.

It will also give the planning firm's evaluation of the probable impact of the Cumberland Thruway.

The report will also provide the commission, for the first time, with a sketch of the city's thoroughfare plan which will indicate the needs of major street patterns.

Following the meeting, the planning firm will be able to refine the thoroughfare plan further, Mr. Joyner said, and begin to prepare the final plan.

The report is a part of the basic studies of the city required under the 22-month planning project.

Feed Grain Program For '63 Outlined

Feed grain producers in Allegany County will be notified in the near future about general provisions of the 1963 feed grain program, according to William L. Dudley, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation state committee.

Unlike the 1962 program, only one signup will be held for the 1963 program, and that will be early next year. Additional information, including the base acreage, yields and payment rates established for farms, will be mailed to growers prior to the signup period.

Farmers who have already planted their 1963 barley will be able to participate in the program provided they reduce their 1963 feed grain acreage by at least the minimum.

The 1963 program will be a voluntary one, under which a farmer may divert an acreage of barley, corn or grain sorghums to a conservation use and receive a diversion payment and a price-support payment; he will also qualify for a price-support loan on his crop. Base acreages for each of the three grains will be combined into a total feed grain base for the farm, and the farmer may divert from one or more of the feed grains represented in his total base. The minimum diversion will be 20 per cent of the farm's total feed grain base, and the maximum will be 50 per cent or up to a total of 25 acres, which ever is higher, but not in excess of the total base for the farm.

As under the 1962 wheat stabilization program, a farmer will have to comply with the intentions shown on his agreement; if he does not comply fully with provisions of the program, he will not be eligible for any payments or price support on any of the three feed grains. Also, to be eligible for a diversion payment and price support on one farm, a grower taking part in the 1963 feed grain program must not exceed the total feed grain base acreage on any other farm in which he has an interest.

Advance payments will again be available at the time of signup. Final payments will be made after compliance has been determined.

MISS EVELYN VerHOECK

Mission Nurse Will Speak At Bethel Church

Miss Evelyn Verhoeck, Nazarene missionary nurse to Guatemala, will be speaker for a special missionary program Wednesday at Bethel Church of the Nazarene, Bowman's Addition. The program will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Miss Verhoeck, who is on her second furlough home, was assigned to Guatemala in 1951. She was first assigned to a clinic in Coban and for the last five years she has been supervisor of nursing at a station in Tucuru. While on furlough she is doing deputization work among Nazarene churches.

A native of Maryland, she completed nurses' training at the Samaritan Hospital, Nampa, Idaho, and then earned a bachelor of science degree in public health nursing at New York University.

She also has done graduate work at Nazarene Theological Seminary, Kansas City, Mo., and prior to being assigned to Guatemala, she was a Navy nurse in Washington, and worked in public nursing in Brooklyn.

She will describe Guatemala and the Nazarene work there, using color slides to illustrate her talk.

Yule Safety Plea Issued By Fire Chief

Fire Chief Virgil Parker said yesterday that Cumberland has not had a fire directly attributed to a Christmas tree for five years and that he hopes the good fortune will continue.

The Fire Department, he said, has appealed to hospitals and county institutions to use artificial trees and to illuminate them by indirect lighting.

He stressed that it is hazardous to use strings of lights or similar lighted decorations on artificial trees due to the danger of short circuits.

Flood or spot lights are available to do the job safely, he said, and excellent effects may be secured with artificial trees or decorations by using rotating color wheels.

As usual, he said, the Cumberland Fire Department is offering free inspection of Christmas tree lights.

Chief Parker said the strings of lights may be taken to the nearest fire station for the safety inspections.

When a conventional Christmas tree is used, Chief Parker is urging that a small one be selected and that it be set up well away from radiators, heaters or fireplaces.

The tree, he said, should be placed in water to retard drying, and fireproof decorations and electric lights — never candles — should be used to light it.
